FROM NATURE TO ICON: MEDRONHO WINS GOOD DESIGN AWARD 2025

For immediate release

Porto 07/04/2026 – Ginger & Jagger, a Portuguese design brand renowned for its nature inspired creations, has been distinguished with an International Design Award with the Medronho Wall Lamp. The accolade was granted at the Good Design Award, organised by the Chicago Athenaeum and the European Centre for Architecture Art Design and Urban Studies, which in 2025 received 5.225 submissions, of which 1.619 were awarded.

The Medronho Wall Lamp distinguishes itself through a sculptural composition in cast brass, gracefully inspired by the organic branching of the medronho tree. Conceived as an ode to the enduring essence of nature, the piece emerges from the wall in a fluid, almost lyrical gesture, where structure and light exist in quiet harmony. Each hand blown glass globe reveal delicate irregularities that honour the authenticity of artisanal craftsmanship. Emitting a soft golden glow, Medronho creates a poetic atmosphere, evoking the quiet beauty and permanence of the natural world.

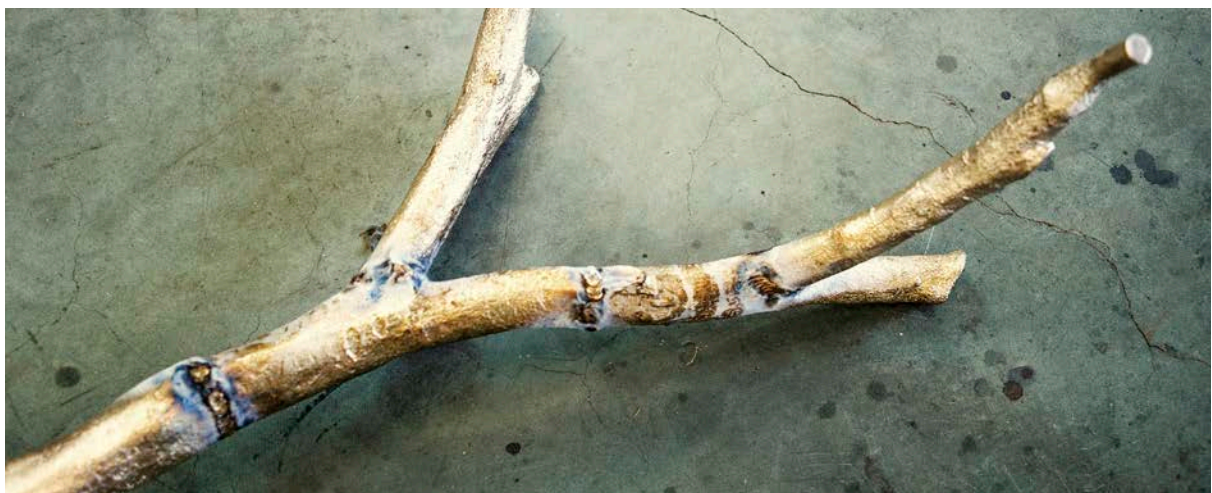

Nature Immortalised Through Craftmanship

The Medronho Wall Lamp draws direct inspiration from the branches of the medronho tree, a symbol deeply rooted in Mediterranean landscapes. Crafted in cast brass with an Antique Brass finish, the structure captures the organic irregularity and movement of natural growth, transforming it into a timeless design object.

Through the use of traditional casting techniques, each branch is shaped with intention, preserving both precision and expressive fluidity. The hand blown glass globes, marked by subtle variations, reveal the intimacy of the handmade, where no two elements are ever alike.

By placing craftsmanship at the core of its creative process, Ginger & Jagger reaffirms its commitment to preserving artisanal knowledge while shaping a contemporary and enduring design identity.
