PORTO, Portugal | 16/06/2026 — Ginger & Jagger unveils new handcrafted sculptural design statements inspired by the quiet poetry of nature. Rooted in geological textures, branching structures, and elemental landscapes, the pieces reveal an exploration of matter, memory, and craftsmanship through timeless forms.

Crafted through Portuguese craftsmanship and distinguished by the expressive use of materials such as cast brass, marble, travertine, lacquer, and hand-blown glass, each piece reveals an atmospheric presence where nature is translated into timeless form.

The Lapa mirror emerges from the mineral memory of the Atlantic coastline, preserving the organic texture of the limpet shaped by erosion and time. The Etna floor lamp evokes the incandescent movement of lava through stone, expressed through a vertical marble body crossed by a continuous trace of light.

Inspired by the delicate structure of rose branches, the Ivy chair balances sculptural rigour with organic fluidity through a composition in cast brass. The Medronho collection, composed of floor, table, and wall lamps, translates the fluidity of branching natural forms into sculptural compositions defined by delicacy and balance. The hand-blown glass globes diffuse a soft golden light, creating serene and contemplative atmospheres.

The Dolmen 88 bookcase explores the relationship between architecture and sculpture through solid volumes and open spaces, while the Flora 94 bookcase establishes a delicate dialogue between transparency, texture, and materiality through the combination of cast brass and smoked glass.
